ABOUT SIR RICHARD STAPLEY EDUCATIONAL TRUST

Founded as a charity in 1919 by the businessman, politician and philanthropist Sir Richard Stapley, for over 100 years our Trust has increased access to educational opportunities for students of proven academic merit experiencing financial need. Open to UK-based students from all countries, the Trust currently supports students undertaking certain postgraduate courses in any subject, as well as medicine, dentistry or veterinary medicine taken as a second degree.

For further details on our current eligibility criteria please see our website.

PLEASE HELP US SUPPORT EVEN MORE STUDENTS IN FUTURE

We depend on our endowment and individual donations to fund everything we do – and the number of students seeking our support is growing all the time. Postgraduate study makes an enormous contribution to public life, providing so much of the knowledge and skills on which we all rely. Every donation however small is welcome. To find out how you can help us to help even more students, please follow this link. Thank you!

ABOUT THIS GUIDE

Much as we would love to help every student in financial need, our own funds are very limited so sometimes we can't help or can't help enough. This guide aims to offer some alternatives to UK-based students seeking charitable grants to finance further or higher degrees in the UK.

Part 1 provides information and links to print and online searchable directories of UK grant makers.

Part 2 provides links to some specific UK grant makers that we know have helped students seeking support.

All information in the guide relates only to the UK and assumes that the reader is living in the UK and attending or planning to attend a recognised UK educational institution. If you are not currently living in the UK, please see the final page.

A NOTE ON UNIVERSITY SCHOLARSHIPS AND BURSARIES

For many students in financial difficulty, their first port of call will be the university at which they are studying. Many universities offer various scholarships and bursaries including:

- Emergency, hardship or welfare funds
- Disadvantaged bursaries - to encourage students from all backgrounds to pursue further study, regardless of their personal circumstances
- Academic excellence scholarships - funding for students in recognition of their outstanding academic credentials
- Alumni discounts - many UK universities offer a tuition fee discount of 10%-15% to their own students who progress to postgraduate study
- Graduate Teaching Assistantship (GTA) - fee waivers for PhD students in return for providing pastoral support and teaching duties to undergraduate students.

To find out more, contact your University Student Services Office or Student Union welfare officer.

PART 1: PRINT AND ONLINE SEARCHABLE DIRECTORIES

IN PRINT

The only published, print directory of educational grant making trusts and foundations that we know of is 'The Guide to Educational Grants' produced by the Directory of Social Change. This is published every two years, and the 16th edition came out in June 2020. The guide has a small section on grants for further and higher education.

The Directory of Social Change also publishes 'The Guide to Grants for Individuals in Need'. The 18th edition was published in March 2022.

These publications are primarily intended for organisations, and are priced accordingly (£95 each). They can be purchased from the Directory of Social Change.

If you wish to view the directories without buying them, you will need to see if your local library, university library, student union welfare office, student services office or local Citizens Advice Bureau has a copy that you can look at. Some students purchase out of date copies cheaply on, for example, eBay or Amazon, but we can't recommend this.

ONLINE

- Prospects: Information and advice for graduates, including a searchable database of loans, scholarships and bursaries for postgraduates.
- GradFunding provides advice on postgraduate funding from charities. They publish The Alternative Guide to Postgraduate Funding as a web resource (currently £14.99 for a 3-months access licence).
- Grant-Making Charities Funding Individuals: Published online by the Directory of Social Change, a one-week user licence currently starts at £180 for charities. If you wish to view the database, you will need to see if your local library, university library, student union welfare office, student services office or local Citizens Advice Bureau has a subscription and will let you access it.
- Turn2Us grants search: Turn2us is a national charity providing practical help to people who are struggling financially. Its grant search database is free to access.
- Help Musicians webpage 'Where can I find funding for postgraduate study?' Help Musicians is an independent UK charity for musicians of all genres. At time of writing, this web page lists 14 trusts, foundations, scholarships, competitions and awards.
- Displaced Student Opportunities UK: Hosted by Refugee Education UK, Student Action for Refugees and Universities of Sanctuary, this resource has information about financial and academic support to access higher education for students who are displaced in the UK.

PART 2: SOME SPECIFIC CHARITABLE GRANT MAKERS

Each year, we ask students we have supported which other charities have given them grants. The list of charities below has been compiled from their answers along with one or two suggestions of our own. To the best of our knowledge, all of those listed are open to applications from individual students (there are others which only accept applications from universities and their staff).

- When? All of those listed are likely to have strict date-bounded application 'windows'. Check when you are able to apply, and if there is an email reminder service, sign up for it.
- Who? They will all have eligibility criteria explaining the kinds of student and the types of courses they are prepared to consider. Check you are eligible to apply before wasting time (yours and theirs).
- How? Apply in the manner prescribed (application form or letter) and make sure you include all of the information requested.
- Make a strong case: Being eligible to apply is only the first hurdle. You will then be in competition with all of the other students who are also eligible to apply. Read their information carefully to find out what you need to include in your application to make the strongest case for yourself.

WHAT IF I AM CURRENTLY LIVING OUTSIDE THE UK?

All information in this guide relates only to the UK and assumes that the reader is living in the UK and attending or planning to attend a recognised UK educational institution. We regret that we have no information about opportunities for those not currently living in and planning to study in the UK, although it may be that the list of scholarships from The Canon Collins Educational Trust may provide some useful leads.
